EDISON'S NEW INFANT.

An Artificial Baby Made to Walk, Talk and Play.

Electricity the Moving Cause—Object, to Supply the Wants of Childless Parents.

NEW YORK, June 20.—Macon, the correspondent of the Virginia City Chronicle, claims that he has seen the wonderful invention a description of which he sends his paper. His account runs as follows: Just prior to Mr. Edison's removal from Menlo Park to this city, he completed and successfully operated his mechanical baby. For some months past Mr. Edison has been devoting a portion of his time to the invention of this household requisite in order to meet the wants of those who are unfortunate in that which is written, "Thou shalt multiply and replenish the earth."

"It is not unfrequently the case," said Mr. Edison, "that the husband and wife are 'at home' to a select number of friends, and in that home where children are unknown, they are 'borrowed' from a neighbor, for, as you know, addressing a large number of good mothers present, 'no household is complete without the presence of a baby.' It was with a view to meet the wants of this class of unfortunate wedded pairs that I set to work and completed what you see before you—a mechanical 'infant.'

"There arises a question," continued Mr. G., "as to whether all persons would want the same sized baby—that is, as you see my smallest one there is my creeping baby—so I have overcome this obstacle by making two sizes, one to represent a baby nine months old, and the other, two years. Now," concluded Mr. Edison, "if you will all stand close to the wall and make the floor clear, I will show you what my little creeper can do."

Accordingly the floor was cleared and the little wax-faced midget was taken from its place on the table, and laid upon its back upon the floor. The battery wires connecting it were charged with a powerful current of electricity. All was quiet for a half minute, when the baby rolled over on its face and uttered a faint cry of "Mamma." Almost instantly it gathered itself up on its hands and knees and started to creep across the floor. Twice it raised itself up on one hand and rubbed its eyes, saying, "Mamma, mamma;" creeping a little further it stopped, buried its head very naturally in its arms on the floor and cried quite lustily. At this stage the mechanism reverses it and a chair was placed in front of it; very soon it slowly got upon its feet, placed its little hands on the seat of the chair and started, pushing it across the floor, laughing its infantile laugh with all the grace imaginable. Reaching the opposite side of the room it stopped, sat down and rolled over on the floor and apparently went to sleep. It was too natural and lifelike, and it certainly was astounding to the spectators. There was momentary silence and the cries of "wonderful! wonderful!" broke from the lips of all present, and one good matron cried "hush, hush, you might wake the little sleeper."

After considerable talk was indulged in by those present, the door was again cleared, and the "two-year-old" was taken, seated in a little chair, and the battery-wires connected. It was not long until it commenced its little pranks about the room. Its first duty seemed to be—after giving it the iced blocks—that of sitting down on the floor and spelling its name, "A-l-v-a," out of the box. He did this nicely. After repeating the little prayer of "Now I lay me down to sleep," it jumped up and to the door and said "tome in," after which it returned to the blocks, built a pyramid and then tumbled them over, laughing heartily and very naturally. A toy piano was placed before it, and after lowering a few chords, it lisped in childish accents the Sunday-school song, "Jesus of Nazareth is passing By." It was then given a doll baby, and, taking it motherlike in its little arms, it crossed the floor to a miniature cradle, and placing it beneath a little coverlet, it sang a sweet and plaintive lullaby, and to all intents and purposes, rocked the silent, chin-headed thing to sleep. Shortly after this it gave a "yawn" and said "mama, I'm sleepy," and laid down, and closing its little blue eyes was, seemingly lost in the revelry of childish dreams. The performances of "Alva" are truly wonderful and almost beyond the belief of even those who witnessed the evolutions. The machinery used to accomplish part of the work is very simple, yet to some extent complicated. The power of speech is obtained by delicate membrane fissure tubes which act in unison with twelve sets of finely constructed reeds, the whole worked by the action of little bellows, operated by electricity and clock-works. The momentum of the body is formed by elevators and weights, propelled by spring power. When the machinery is put in motion and the electric fluid is sent into the figure, each part of its functions are operated just the same as the hands on a dial. It requires expertise to arrange each department accurately—as, placing the blocks the correct distance from the chair—knowing just the time to place the toy piano in front of it, etc.; all these can soon be learned after a few trials. Mr. Edison is highly pleased with his success. One great advantage in them you need no nurse, and only use them when in a baby humor. Mr. Edison has given a contract to one of our leading doll firms for 100 babies.

FOOD FRAUDS.

Adulterations Found in "Pure" Tea, Coffee and Spices.

Chicago, June 20.—Prof. J. H. Long, of the Chicago Medical College, visited all the grocery shops on State street, between 12th and 20th, a short time since, and purchased at each a small parcel of cheap grade tea and another of coffee, all of which he analyzed.

The tea in almost every case was adulterated, fully 10 per cent of it being wild rose and willow leaves, which, the professor says, are favorite material for adulteration, owing to their similarity to the tea leaf. The adulteration is done principally previous to the shipment of the tea, the wild rose and willow leaves being mixed in the chests along with the genuine article, so that by the time the consignment has reached the dealer it is pretty hard to detect the adulteration otherwise than by an elaborate analysis.

The adulteration of coffee takes place in the store of the retailer. It can only be done in the case of coffee being sold ready ground, as nothing has been found yet to resemble the genuine berry. The samples of ground coffee analyzed by Prof. Long were found, with very few exceptions, to contain a certain quota of chopped-up peas, or sup or walking the streets all night.

The indications are that the convention will be the largest in the history of the party. The hotels were all filled before one-third of the delegates had arrived. Hoadly is receiving his friends to-day in his room at the Neil, while Ward, Geddes and Denver are circulating through the crowd.

Hoadly is very confident of his nomination on the first ballot. His friends now in the city are claiming this beyond doubt. On the other hand there has been a strong undercurrent of feeling in favor of Ward, and Durbin, who was decidedly in the ascendancy yesterday, seems to be holding the same position to-day. Hoadly's strength will all develop on the first ballot, and if he is not nominated then there does not seem to be much doubt of his ultimate defeat.

Geddes told your correspondent this morning that his outlook was more encouraging than ever before. He will have considerable strength on the first ballot, which, if the proper time arrives, will be transferred to Ward, securing the latter's nomination on the second ballot. Denver is not much spoken of. The unexpected strength of Ward in the Cincinnati delegation is regarded as unfavorable by the Hoadly following.

Hoadly's nomination will give John H. Farley, of Cleveland, the second place. Otherwise John A. Shank, of Cincinnati, will secure it.

The leaders say the platform will be short; will not refer to the Scott Bill; will declare against all sumptuary legislation; demand a tariff for revenue so arranged as to provide equitable protection without encouraging monopolies, and will demand a constitutional amendment allowing judications license.

Ward's friends are more confident than ever of his nomination, saying a divided delegation from Cincinnati will break Hoadly's solid support from Cleveland.

SMUGGLED CHINESE.

The Facilities for Putting Mongolians Across the Northern Border.

WASHINGTON, June 20.—It has been repeatedly claimed by people on the Pacific Coast that Chinese laborers in British Columbia were smuggled across the frontier in violation of the act of May 6, 1882, excluding Chinese immigrants from the United States, and at the request of Representatives Rosecrans and Berry, of California, and Senator Jones, of Nevada, Secretary Folger ordered a special agent to the frontier to inquire and make a report on the number, calling and location of the Chinese in British Columbia, and the possibility of their entering this country as charged. This report has just been received. It places the number of Chinese in British Columbia at 10,000. They are chiefly employed in the construction of the Canadian Pacific railway, at the fisheries and at the mines, about 6,000 coolies being engaged in railroad construction alone. The agent says it is possible, but not likely, that if the British Columbia Chinamen taxed their ingenuity, a landing by canoe or small sail boat could be effected on the sparsely settled islands dotting Puget sound, or in Washington Territory by crossing the Straits of San Juan de Fuca, but any such attempt to be successful, would require the co-operation of white people, which is not likely to be extended unless a radical change of sentiment takes place on the Chinese immigration question. A straggler seeking entrance by the islands would certainly be discovered, and before he could reach a settlement, or if the entrance was attempted by crossing the straits, a range of mountains extending along the north coast of Washington Territory would prove an insuperable barrier.

The facilities for land travel are confined to five trails, but these are all guarded by mounted custom officers except that leading from Fort Hope, B. C., to the Skagit mines in Washington Territory. The whites there are hostile to the Chinese, and would promptly notify the authorities. The contractors engaged in the construction of the Canadian Pacific assured the agent that their only losses of Chinese laborers are by death, none by desertion. The agent admits that a few adventurous stragglers may evade the customs officers, but he says no organized effort to cross the frontier is apprehended until the completion of the Canadian Pacific, and the men engaged thereon are compelled to seek work elsewhere. The road cannot be finished, however, until 1886 or 1887. The agent claims that having paid close attention to the opportunities and possibilities of infraction of the Chinese act since its passage, he can, without fear of truthful contradiction, aver that no Chinese from British Columbia have entered Washington Territory or Oregon without the production of proof of professional or mercantile avocation, or proof of previous residence in the United States, as required by the regulations of the Treasury Department.

To insure redoubled vigilance the agent recommends that the department issue special instructions to the commander of the revenue cutter Wolcott to exercise special vigilance in preventing the unauthorized entrances of Chinese by water. The present force of custom house officers he considers ample to deal with the Chinese by land.

New York's Horse Show.

NEW YORK, June 20.—All the arrangements are now complete, so far as can be, for the holding of the first exhibition of the National Horse Show Association in October next. The obstacle which is at present in the way is the obtaining of the most desirable location for the show. The subject is engaging the best attention of the executive committee, who hope to speedily announce where the show will be held.

THE OHIO DEMOCRATS.

One of the Largest and Most Interesting Conventions Ever Held.

Candidates for Governor on Hand and Energetically Supporting the Efforts of Their Enthusiastic Friends—Hoadly and Ward in the Front.

COLUMBUS, June 20.—Every train brings large reinforcements for the convention. Last night the hotels were full, but more and more come to risk the chance of a cot, or sup or walking the streets all night.

The indications are that the convention will be the largest in the history of the party. The hotels were all filled before one-third of the delegates had arrived. Hoadly is receiving his friends to-day in his room at the Neil, while Ward, Geddes and Denver are circulating through the crowd.

THE DUDE'S QUEEN.

Lillian Russell's Mamma Defends the Eccentricities of Her Dashing Daughter.

NEW YORK, June 20.—Henderson, of the Standard Theater, who holds a contract with Lillian Russell, has taken such steps as will prevent her singing in England after September.

Several amusing facts have turned up relative to the departure of "Mr. and Mrs. Salomon and maid." It appears that Salomon paid for the passage with a check of a New York firm for $130, which on presentation was marked "N. F." and returned. The Monarch line officials were alarmed and were on the point of cabling for his arrest, but the following day the check was met.

Mrs. Cynthia Leonard has written a letter in which she says:

Miss Russell is not disposed to be dishonest. I think, however, she has come to the conclusion that honesty does not pay when she has dishonesty to contend with. She pawned her diamonds at Lindos for $300 and paid "God-chauz" that amount in advance. Every attempt was made to blackmail her by men who claimed to be of great importance. Diamond frauds were undertaken, and almost every one who came to her seemed bent upon extracting money. She at last came to look upon the commercial world as a legalized swindle. After leaving home she was soon convinced that there was no money in paying debts and much in sailing for Europe, especially as she had to defray the expenses of the entire party over.

If Miss Russell had not been a great attraction at the Casino, McCaul would never have given her $300 per week when he could fill the post for $100. McCaul hires his people especially to make money out of them, and never treats any one of them with civility who will endure incivility from him. He seems to forget that his people are white. Most of the young men whom he calls "dudes" who frequent the Casino, are stockholders in the McCaul Opera Company in a small way, having paid a few hundred dollars, the dividend returning being an introduction to the women on the stage and a promise to make them solid with the same. Consequently those whom he can not manage easily he pronounces fractious and unmanageable. Miss Russell's popularity did not depend upon the young or old men of New York. She had as many admirers among women as men, and while she was ill last winter many of the baskets of fruit, flowers, and wine came from ladies—some of the finest ladies in the city. Her popularity came of real merit, and before she ever came to New York she sang classic and operatic music that called forth criticisms in the Chicago papers that would have been flattery to a prima donna in grand opera. I am not surprised, however, that she is underrated now as she has done herself the injustice to sing nothing but Salomon's trashy music since her return to the stage, particularly in concert, where she should have rendered her best efforts to the public. She will probably see her mistake soon.

Had Miss Russell paid her creditors now, Salomon and Stephens could not have gone to Europe. However I think she will become wiser soon, and probably return to fill her engagements with Henderson and pay her bills and costumers. When she sees fit to sing the class of music adapted to the pure quality of her voice the public will be again ready to acknowledge her merit.

AN ELECTRIC BRAKE

Which Can Be Applied to Freight Trains.

CHICAGO, June 20.—The Chicago Railway Exposition is proving of incalculable advantage to the railroads of the country. The number of new and useful inventions exhibited has been simply astonishing. From 12,000 to 15,000 visitors have attended daily. Notwithstanding all this the press of Chicago has acted in a very strange manner toward exhibitors who have expended time and money preparing for this exposition. Not a line has been published except that which has been paid for at high rates. This is in striking contrast with the enterprise of Cincinnati and Louisville newspapers. When expositions have been held in those cities the newspapers have vied with each other in giving full reports of meritorious inventions.

There is no lack of material for this kind of work at Chicago. Take, for instance, simply the west wing of the Annex Building, where the Westinghouse Signal Switch System, controlled by electricity, finds a strong competitor in the American Pneumatic System of Boston. Here, too, among other things of great value, is to be found an invention which has developed an entirely new and practical use for electricity—the Waldemar Electric Brake for railway cars, either passenger or freight. A train, one-fourth size cars, is daily run with a small locomotive, on a track 200 feet long, and the brakes applied by electricity. It is the invention of A. L. Duvelins, of Cincinnati, Ohio, and is a continuous brake system under the control of the engineer on the locomotive, and operated by him exactly as the air-brake now is, the electric current, generated by a dynamo machine on the locomotive, being sent along wires stretched the whole length of the train, with proper couplings, instead of forcing compressed air through tubes. The apparent advantages are, no danger of leakage, a more uniform application, every brake-shoe throughout the train feeling the influence of power at the same instant of time, and also, since a current of electricity can be carried as far as a wire can be stretched, that any length freight trains can be controlled by the engineer. In passenger cars the stop is automatic, in case of separation of the parts of the train. In freight cars there is a storage cell placed in the caboose, which enables the conductor to handle the train from the rear, in case of necessity.

Should there be a separation of the cars of a freight train a bell rings in the locomotive to notify the engineer, and one for the conductor in the caboose. Not one line has appeared in any Chicago newspaper about this wonderful invention, except in the Railway Review, and yet this part of the Exposition building is literally jammed with interested examiners whenever the train is put in operation.

Important and Probably True.

WASHINGTON, June 20.—A reporter on the Washington Republican has had a spicy interview with Postmaster General Gresham.

"General Gresham, I am told that from two to three-tenths of the newspapers mailed by private citizens never reach their destination. How do you account for it?" said the correspondent to the Postmaster General.

"You surprise me by the statement. As you have interviewed me several times since I came to Washington, let me interview you. How do you get your information about newspapers?"

"From talking to a great many people, and from personal experience. In my business I am necessarily compelled to send off quite a number of newspapers. I know that at least one-third of them never reach the parties to whom they are mailed."

"Well, what do you think is the reason?"

"I attribute the failure to the gross carelessness of the postoffice officials. A newspaper in their mind is a very small thing, and it is handled accordingly. If the address is in the least unintelligent, no effort is made to decipher it, and it is tossed on the floor, and if the wrapper happens to be torn it shares the same fate. Then I believe that as a general rule postmasters and clerks have no conscientious scruples in tearing open and reading any paper they please that passes through their hands."

Queen Victoria's Health.

LONDON, June 20.—This week's Truth prints the following in regard to the condition of the Queen: The Queen, for two months, has been in a state of mild melancholia, which, in the course of time, if not relieved, will probably become very difficult treat. Her condition has naturally caused great anxiety because of the tendencies of her family. Her Majesty and Princess Beatrice will, in the autumn, go to the vicinity of Florence, Italy, where they will remain two months.

Folger's Life Threatened.

WASHINGTON, June 20.—The Star says it has learned that George Albert Mason, recently released from the Albany Penitentiary, has threatened to assassinate Secretary Folger, on the ground that the Treasury Department refused to grant a claim for damages for false imprisonment. The threats have reached the ears of the Secretary, and, as the report comes from a reliable source, grave fears are entertained that Mason may carry out his intention, as he is known to be a very dangerous man.

A CINCINNATI TRAGEDY.

Ex-Alderman John J. Kelly Shoots James Toal With Probable Fatal Effect.

CINCINNATI, June 20.—Ex-Alderman John J. Kelly, who has figured in a number of shooting scrapes, especially at election times in this city, used his gun again last evening, and this time it is a pretty sure thing that he has succeeded in committing a murder.

Last evening at 6 o'clock Kelly was standing on the outside of the curbstone, a few feet east of the Gift's engine-house, on Sixth street, near Vine, where the primary election for Precinct A, of the Ninth Ward, was being held. He was talking to somebody, when James Toal came up and, playfully grabbing Kelly's hat off, placed it on his own head. Kelly, with an oath, made a snatch for the hat, and obtaining it, told Toal to let the hat alone. Woods followed, when Kelly went out into the street, drew a large revolver, and shot Toal, the ball passing through the man's left arm and entered the body. Dr. Judkins pronounced the wound necessarily fatal, as there was an internal hemorrhage.

Detectives Mead and White and Officer Smallwood took Kelly to the Central Station and locked him up on the charge of shooting with intent to kill.

Kelly spent the night in the station house. Bond was denied. Kelly's wife and several of his friends visited him in the station house, and a fine supper was sent him, which he ate as though nothing worried him.

At 2 o'clock this morning Toal was sleeping—probably never to wake again.

THE DAILY BULLETIN.

THURSDAY EVENING, JUNE 21, 1883.

A COMPANY is marching out,
And not to fife and drum,
But to the stirring music of
The busy reapers, hum.
There is no blood upon their hands,
No heaping piles of slain,
But only rifts of golden wheat,
Upon the harvest plain.

STRAW hats went to the rear to-day.

BUTTER is now selling at 15 and 20 cents a pound.

NEW potatoes are sold this week at 40 cents a peck.

SEVEN steam threshers are at work in Lewis county this season.

COL. MORROW, the Republican candidate for Governor, will speak at Vancouver, July 20th, and in this city on the 21st.

In anticipation of the completion of the street railway, some of the citizens of the East end are disposing of their horses and vehicles.

THE Vanceburg Courier is perfectly correct when it says: There's nothing modest about a Maysville sow. She will lie down and have pigs anywhere.

The large whisky house of Wm. Davie & Co., at Paris, has been closed by the sheriff under an order of the Louisville court. The stock was attached for a debt of $5,000.

THE pupils of the High School, Prof. W. W. Richeson, principal, were examined to-day. The programme of exercises was very interesting and up to the usual high standard.

MR. J. J. McCARTHY, driver of the Mt. Carmel omnibus, has been detained at home for several days past by the severe illness of his wife. His place has been supplied by Mr. James Masterson. At last accounts Mrs. McCarthy was reported to be much better.

THE examining trial of the negro Direly, at Catlettsburg, resulted in his acquittal and discharge. Detective Burnett has given up the case and admits that he made a mistake in causing the arrest of the accused. It is now thought that the application for a rehearing of Craft's case by the Court of Appeals will not be presented.

THE agents appointed to advertise the coming Cincinnati Exposition have sent to the BULLETIN matter that measures eight inches of space with the modest request that we will print it for one month for the compensation of fifty cents a week, or two dollars in all. It occurs to us that the proprietors of the Cincinnati show are exhibiting a decidedly mean disposition in dealing with the press of the neighborhoods from which they expect a considerable part of their patronage, and are running on very narrow gauge principles. The managers are able to pay and ought to pay full value for their advertisements and will do it if they expect to use the columns of the BULLETIN.

THE Washington correspondent of the Enquirer says: It is understood that the consolidation of Internal Revenue districts in Kentucky will be so arranged as to dispense with a near relative of Ex-Secretary Blaine. While the schedule has not yet been definitely announced it is said that the plan proposed for Kentucky includes the abolition of the Maysville office and transfer of its territory to the Covington and Lexington. John Blaine, who has been the Collector at Maysville, is a near relative of the Ex-Secretary of State, and comes from the section of the State where several members of the Blaine family resided, and where James G. taught school in earlier years. The Maysville collectorship pays $2,750 per year, with some extras, and like Conkling's rubber band, "was about all the Ex-Secretary expected to get out of this Administration."

The consolidation proposed will not disturb John Blaine's equanimity in the least, as his resignation has been before the department for several weeks. When the decapitation begins, unless the Government provides one, there will be no collector to be had.

Prof. Bristow Explains.

The following explanation of the assault on the Rev. Elisha Green, of this city, is printed in the Paris Kentuckian as coming from Prof. Bristow: Meeting Prof. Bristow, of Millersburg Female College, and a pleasant party of young ladies, on Saturday's train, we asked him to record the names in our note book, which he did as follows: Prof. F. L. Bristow, Tuscaloosa, Ala.; Miss Charlotte Kilpatrick, Cartersville, Ga.; Miss Lutie Peterson, Tuscaloosa, Ala.; Miss Jennie Saunders, Parkersburg, West Virginia.

"All seated, and no Rev. African molested," added he. We then asked him as to the facts of the case in regard to the difficulty with the colored man Green. "As we went into the car," said he, several persons made way to let the young ladies have seats together, and we naturally expected the darkey to do likewise, and after waiting some time, asked him if he didn't intend to take another seat and let the ladies have his. He was positive that he would not do so, and then we waited for the conductor to try to prevail on G. to act the part of true courtesy, but he was obdurate, and the conductor didn't feel authorized to interfere, and we then said we would force him to act the part of a gentleman. Mr. Gould attempted to draw him out of the seat, when Green struck at him, and I tapped the darkey with this light satchel. I knew nothing of his being a preacher or crippled, as he is a very large, robust looking darkey, and I notice gets about very well. I think any man, white or black, that won't readily accommodate ladies, ought to be made to do so. I knocked a darkey down once in Little Rock, Ark., who wouldn't give way to ladies in the street. I did tell a man, (since said to be Rev. Jno. Barbour) who sided with Green, that I could accommodate him."

An Artistic Japanese Thief.

One morning, having risen earlier than usual, I took my seat by the grated window of my chamber and watched the passers. Presently, a gentle-faced, old lady, followed by a dog, came in light, encountered a friend, bowed low and began an animated conversation. While they were thus employed, a kami-kudzu-hiori stealthily approached, and after striking the dog upon the head, picked up the insensible creature with his sticks, threw it into his basket and covered it with the contents, then coolly proceeded to examine some rubbish deposited by the way side. In a few moments the old lady missed her pet and began to call for him; meanwhile the paper collector continued his occupation in an unconcerned manner, as though guiltless of the theft.

"Have you seen my beautiful little dog?" inquired the woman, regarding him suspiciously.

"Dog, dog?" he answered, bowing servilely. "Honorable lady do you take me for a thief?"

"Yes; I believe you have stolen him," she indignantly replied. "I suppose you want to make a few cash by turning his beautiful skin into a drumhead."

"Honorable lady, you are indeed mistaken," murmured the rascal, shifting the basket to his back, crouching to the ground and bowing his head. "Although I am only a miserable kami-kudzu-hiori, I am strictly honest. I have not set eyes on your amiable animal. If you will describe him and tell me where you live I may meet him in my walks, when I will restore him to you."

"My little Chin has a black and white coat, and wears a red and yellow cotton frill around his neck. Although you pretend to be so innocent, I believe you know something about him."

"The gods will bear witness to my innocence," murmured the rascal, shifting the basket to his back, crouching to the ground and bowing his head. "Although I am only a miserable kami-kudzu-hiori, I am strictly honest. I have not set eyes on your amiable animal. If you will describe him and tell me where you live I may meet him in my walks, when I will restore him to you."

Rev. Father Wilds' EXPERIENCE.

The Rev. Z. P. Wilds, well-known city missionary in New York, and brother of the late eminent Judge Wilds, of the Massachusetts Supreme Court, writes as follows:

"78 E. 54th St., New York, May 16, 1882.

MESSRS. J. C. AYER & CO., Gentlemen:

Last winter I was troubled with a most uncomfortable skin complaint, which itched so intolerably at night, and burned so intensely, that I could scarcely bear any clothing over them. I was also a sufferer from a severe catarrh and catarrhal cough; my appetite was poor, and my system a good deal run down. Knowing the value of AYER'S SARSAPARILLA, by a friend, I made myself a decoction and medicinal use in former years, I began taking it for the above-named disorders. My appetite improved almost from the first dose. After a short time the fever and itching were allayed, and all signs of irritation of the skin disappeared. My catarrh and cough were also cured by the same means, and my general health greatly improved, until I was again in full strength. I am much more robust, and I attribute these results to the use of the SARSAPARILLA, which I recommend with all confidence as the best blood medicine ever devised. I took it in small doses three times a day, and used, in all, less than two bottles. I place these facts at your service, hoping their publication may do good.

Yours respectfully, Z. P. WILDS."

The above instance is but one of the many constantly coming to our notice, which prove the perfect adaptability of AYER'S SARSAPARILLA to the cure of all diseases arising from impure or impoverished blood, and a weakened vitality.

Ayer's Sarsaparilla

cleanses, enriches, and strengthens the blood, stimulates the action of the stomach and bowels, and thereby enables the system to resist and overcome the attacks of all Scrofulous Diseases, Eruptions of the Skin, Rheumatism, Catarrh, General Debility, and all disorders resulting from poor or corrupted blood and a low state of the system.
